
Thomas Wolfe once said, “Culture is the arts elevated to a set of beliefs.”

The effect of cinema on our culture is profound in its encouraging of ideas, nurturing social commentary, empowering expression, and shaping opinions with the ultimate goal of forming lasting connections through shared personal experience. These valuable moral lessons and opportunities for reflection learned from fictional characters and settings create in us a sense of responsibility to confront and confirm our own identities as we travel through life’s journey, pausing at critical moments to reflect and be grateful.

After the Sandlapper Singers set the tone for our 24th season with a celebration of popular music from America cinema, we will pause during the holiday season to personalize our feelings of joy and again in the spring with Dan Forrest’s, “Requiem for the Living,” to express comfort and assurance in times of darkness and loss. Join us for this captivating season of choral artistry.

The popularity of choral music soars during the holiday season, because of its ability to remind us of the simple things that mean the most to us...family, friends, faith, and fellowship. And for many, music is a gift in and of itself!

Dan Forrest is a South Carolina-based, internationally-renowned composer whose “Requiem for the Living” has been presented all over the world since its premiere in 2014. A Requiem, at its core, is a prayer for rest - traditionally, for the deceased. The five movements of Dan Forrest’s “Requiem for the Living,” however, form a narrative just as much for the living, and their own struggle with pain and sorrow. The Sandlapper Singers are thrilled to share the stage with the Charleston Southern University Concert Singers and chamber orchestra accompaniment to present this glorious masterwork in Columbia and Mt. Pleasant.
